1 Introduction

This specification sets out the content and assessment details for our GCSE course in Religious Studies. We have designed this specification to meet the requirements of:

- Northern Ireland GCSE Design Principles; and
- Northern Ireland GCE and GCSE Qualifications Criteria.

First teaching is from September 2017. The specification incorporates a Short Course that can be taught alongside the Full Course GCSE. We will make the first award based on this specification, for both the Full Course and the Short Course, in Summer 2019.

This specification is a unitised course. The guided learning hours, as for all our GCSEs, are 120 hours.

The specification supports the aim of the Northern Ireland Curriculum to empower young people to achieve their potential and to make informed and responsible decisions throughout their lives, as well as its objectives:

- to develop the young person as an individual;
- to develop the young person as a contributor to society; and
- to develop the young person as a contributor to the economy and environment.

If there are any major changes to this specification, we will notify centres in writing. The online version of the specification will always be the most up to date; to view and download this please go to www.ccea.org.uk

1.1 Aims

This specification aims to encourage students to:

- be inspired, moved and changed by following a broad and worthwhile course of study that will challenge and equip them to lead constructive lives in the modern world;
- develop their interest in and enthusiasm for the study of religion, and relate it to the wider world;
- adopt an enquiring, critical and reflective approach to the study of religion;
- reflect on and develop their own values, opinions and attitudes in light of their learning;
- explore religions and beliefs, giving them opportunities to reflect on fundamental questions related to belief, engage with them intellectually and respond personally;
- enhance their spiritual and moral development, and contribute to their health and well-being; and
- enhance their personal, social and cultural development, along with their understanding of different cultures locally, nationally and in the wider world, so they may contribute to social and community cohesion.

1.2 Key features

The following are important features of this specification.

- It offers opportunities to build on the skills and capabilities developed through the delivery of the Northern Ireland Curriculum at Key Stage 3.
- The unitised structure allows flexibility of choice for students and teachers.
- The content is in line with the core curriculum for Religious Education at Key Stage 4 in Northern Ireland.
- It incorporates a Short Course that can be taught alongside the Full Course GCSE.
- All units are available for assessment from Summer 2018 (with the first award of both Short Course and Full Course in Summer 2019).
- The course provides a sound basis for further study of Religious Studies (or related vocational subjects) at a more advanced level.
- Course textbooks are available and regular INSET support is provided.

1.3 Prior attainment

Students do not need to have reached a particular level of attainment before beginning to study this specification. However, in compiling the subject content, we have taken into consideration the content of the core curriculum for Religious Education at Key Stage 3 in Northern Ireland.

1.4 Classification codes and subject combinations

Every specification has a national classification code that indicates its subject area. The classification code for this qualification is 4610.

Please note that if a student takes two qualifications with the same classification code, schools, colleges and universities that they apply to may take the view that they have achieved only one of the two GCSEs. The same may occur with any two GCSE qualifications that have a significant overlap in content, even if the classification codes are different. Because of this, students who have any doubts about their subject combinations should check with the schools, colleges and universities that they would like to attend before beginning their studies.

1.5 Prohibited unit combinations

Full Course students must not combine:

- any two of the following three units:
 - Unit 1: The Christian Church through a Study of the Catholic Church and the Protestant Church
 - Unit 2: The Christian Church with a Focus on EITHER the Catholic Church OR the Protestant Church
 - Unit 3: The Revelation of God and the Christian Church

- or any two of the following three units:
 - Unit 3: The Revelation of God and the Christian Church
 - Unit 4: Christianity through a Study of the Gospel of Matthew
 - Unit 5: Christianity through a Study of the Gospel of Mark.

Short Course students may choose to study any one of the units outlined in Section 3.

2 Specification at a Glance

The table below summarises the structure of the Full and Short courses.

Full Course students complete two of the nine units.

Short Course students complete one of the nine units.

See Section 1.5 for the prohibited unit combinations.

The scheme of assessment is flexible. Full Course students can take:

- both assessment units at the end of two years of study; or
- one assessment unit at the end of the first year of study, and the other assessment unit at the end of the second year of study.

Students can take their assessment units in any order.

3.3 Unit 3: The Revelation of God and the Christian Church

This unit introduces students to four themes in the Gospels, based on the person and ministry of Jesus, and three themes that focus on the Christian Church.

Students enhance their knowledge and understanding of, and ability to evaluate, key passages. They should consider these passages both within the religious, political, social and cultural context of Jesus' time, and in terms of how they influence contemporary Christian lifestyle in all its diversity. Students should recognise that some of the set passages are relevant to more than one theme.

Students also learn about Christian practice and worship in the world today from the perspective of the Catholic Church and the Protestant Church. To cover the content, students may learn about a different Protestant Church for each learning outcome.

4 Scheme of Assessment

4.1 Assessment opportunities

For the availability of examinations and assessment, see Section 2.

This is a unitised specification; candidates must complete at least 40 percent of the overall assessment requirements at the end of the course, in the examination series in which they request a final subject grade. This is the terminal rule.

Candidates may resit individual assessment units once before cash-in. The better of the two results will count towards their final GCSE grade unless a unit is required to meet the 40 percent terminal rule. If it is, the more recent mark will count (whether or not it is the better result). Results for individual assessment units remain available to count towards a GCSE qualification until we withdraw the specification.

Please note that the first cash-in for both the Short Course and the Full Course is in Summer 2019.

4.2 Assessment objectives

There are two assessment objectives for this specification. Candidates must:

- AO1 demonstrate knowledge and understanding of religion, including beliefs, practices and sources of authority; and
- AO2 analyse and evaluate aspects of religion and belief, including their significance and influence.

4.3 Assessment objective weightings

The tables below set out the assessment objective weightings for each assessment component and the overall GCSE qualification.

Full Course

Assessment Objective	Unit Weighting (%)		Overall Weighting (%)
	External Assessment
	First Chosen Unit	Second Chosen Unit
AO1	25	25	50
AO2	25	25	50
Total Weighting	50	50	100

Short Course

Assessment Objective	Unit Weighting (%)		Overall Weighting (%)
	External Assessment
	Chosen Unit
A01	50		50
A02	50		50
Total Weighting	100		100

4.4 Quality of written communication

In GCSE Religious Studies, candidates must demonstrate their quality of written communication. They need to:

- ensure that text is legible and that spelling, punctuation and grammar are accurate so that meaning is clear;
- select and use a form and style of writing that suit their purpose and complex subject matter; and
- organise information clearly and coherently, using specialist vocabulary where appropriate.

Quality of written communication is assessed in the extended writing questions worth 10 marks in Section B of each examination paper.

4.5 Reporting and grading

We report the results of individual assessment units on a uniform mark scale that reflects the assessment weighting of each unit. We determine the grades awarded by aggregating the uniform marks that candidates obtain in individual assessment units.

We award GCSE qualifications on a grade scale from A* to G, with A* being the highest. The nine grades available are as follows:

Grade	A*	A	B	C*	C	D	E	F	G
-------	----	---	---	----	---	---	---	---	---

If candidates fail to attain a grade G or above, we report their result as unclassified (U).

5 Grade Descriptions

Grade descriptions are provided to give a general indication of the standards of achievement likely to have been shown by candidates awarded particular grades. The descriptions must be interpreted in relation to the content in the specification; they are not designed to define that content. The grade awarded depends in practice upon the extent to which the candidate has met the assessment objectives overall. Shortcomings in some aspects of candidates' performance in the assessment may be balanced by better performances in others.

Grade	Description
A	Candidates demonstrate detailed knowledge and thorough understanding of religion to describe, explain and analyse the significance and impact of beliefs, teachings, sources of authority, practices, ways of life and forms of expressing meaning. They interpret, draw out and explain the meaning and importance of the beliefs and practices of the religion(s) and/or beliefs studied, and assess the significance and influence of these on believers' lives. They explain, where appropriate, how differences in belief lead to differences of religious response. They understand and use a range of specialist vocabulary accurately and appropriately. They use very well formed and reasoned arguments supported by a range of evidence to respond to religious beliefs, moral issues and ultimate questions, recognising the complexity of issues. They demonstrate informed insight in evaluating different points of view to reach evidenced judgements about these beliefs, issues and questions.
C	Candidates demonstrate sound knowledge and understanding of religion to describe and explain the significance and impact of beliefs, teachings, sources of authority, practices, ways of life and forms of expressing meaning. They show awareness of the meaning and importance of the beliefs and practices of the religion(s) and/or beliefs studied, and can describe the significance and influence of these on believers' lives. They recognise how differences in belief lead to differences of religious response. They communicate their ideas using specialist vocabulary appropriately. They use good arguments supported by relevant evidence to express and evaluate different responses to issues studied. They refer to different points of view in making judgements about these issues.

F	Candidates demonstrate basic knowledge and understanding of religion to describe, with some reasons, the significance and impact of beliefs, teachings, sources of authority, practices, ways of life and forms of expressing meaning. They show some awareness of the meaning and importance of the religion(s) and/or beliefs studied, sometimes recognising and making simple connections between religion and believers' lives. They communicate their ideas using everyday language. They present basic arguments supporting an opinion about the issues studied, and show some understanding of the complexity of the issues by describing different points of view.

6 Curriculum Objectives

This specification builds on the learning experiences from Key Stage 3 as required for the statutory Northern Ireland Curriculum. It also offers opportunities for students to contribute to the aim and objectives of the Curriculum at Key Stage 4, and to continue to develop the Cross-Curricular Skills and the Thinking Skills and Personal Capabilities. The extent of the development of these skills and capabilities will be dependent on the teaching and learning methodology used.

6.1 Cross-Curricular Skills at Key Stage 4

Communication
Students should be able to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • communicate meaning, feelings and viewpoints in a logical and coherent manner, for example on the debate about euthanasia; • make oral and written summaries, reports and presentations, taking account of audience and purpose, for example report on updates to the law on assisted dying; • participate in discussions, debates and interviews, for example debate about capital punishment; and • explore and respond, both imaginatively and critically, to a variety of texts, for example news items, church statements and sacred writings.
Using Mathematics
Students should be able to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • interpret and analyse a wide range of mathematical data, for example statistics on the divorce rate or the numbers of people converting to a religious faith; • assess probability and risk in a range of simulated and real-life contexts, for example situations that might result in an unplanned pregnancy; and • present mathematical data in a variety of formats which take account of audience and purpose, for example present relevant data in oral and written reports or presentations.
Using ICT
Students should be able to make effective use of information and communications technology in a wide range of contexts to access, manage, select and present information, including mathematical information, for example carry out secondary research online and prepare oral and written reports or presentations.

6.2 Thinking Skills and Personal Capabilities at Key Stage 4

Self-Management
Students should be able to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • plan work, for example when carrying out homework; • set personal learning goals and targets to meet deadlines, for example in revising for school tests; and • monitor, review and evaluate their progress and improve their learning, for example by improving their performance in the extended writing questions.
Working with Others
Students should be able to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • learn with and from others through co-operation, for example a class debate on the validity of the resurrection; • participate in effective teams and accept responsibility for achieving collective goals, for example a group discussion on the issues surrounding human surrogacy; and • listen actively to others and influence group thinking and decision-making, taking account of others' opinions, for example when debating the arguments for the existence of God.
Problem Solving
Students should be able to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • identify and analyse relationships and patterns, for example an investigation of the changing attitudes towards sexual relationships; • propose justified explanations, for example whether the death penalty is a deterrent; • reason, form opinions and justify their views, for example on the existence of God; • analyse critically and assess evidence to understand how information or evidence can be used to serve different purposes or agendas, for example different uses for the Bible in Christian worship; • analyse and evaluate multiple perspectives, for example comparison of the different views of the role of women in Islam and Judaism; and • explore unfamiliar views without prejudice, for example different beliefs about God from different world religions.

Although not referred to separately as a statutory requirement at Key Stage 4 in the Northern Ireland Curriculum, Managing Information and Being Creative may also remain relevant to learning.

7 Links and Support

7.1 Support

The following resources are available to support this specification:

- our Religious Studies microsite at www.ccea.org.uk and
- specimen assessment materials.

We also intend to provide:

- past papers;
- mark schemes;
- Chief Examiner's reports;
- planning frameworks;
- centre support visits;
- support days for teachers;
- a resource list; and
- exemplification of examination performance.

7.2 Examination entries

Entry codes for this subject and details on how to make entries are available on our Qualifications Administration Handbook microsite, which you can access at www.ccea.org.uk

Alternatively, you can telephone our Examination Entries, Results and Certification team using the contact details provided.

7.3 Equality and inclusion

We have considered the requirements of equality legislation in developing this specification and designed it to be as free as possible from ethnic, gender, religious, political and other forms of bias.

GCSE qualifications often require the assessment of a broad range of competences. This is because they are general qualifications that prepare students for a wide range of occupations and higher level courses.

During the development process, an external equality panel reviewed the specification to identify any potential barriers to equality and inclusion. Where appropriate, we have considered measures to support access and mitigate barriers.

We can make reasonable adjustments for students with disabilities to reduce barriers to accessing assessments. For this reason, very few students will have a complete barrier to any part of the assessment.

It is important to note that where access arrangements are permitted, they must not be used in any way that undermines the integrity of the assessment. You can find information on reasonable adjustments in the Joint Council for Qualifications document Access Arrangements and Reasonable Adjustments, available at www.jcq.org.uk
